National
Multiple Sclerosis
Society

Congressional Multiple Sclerosis Caucus

Thank you to all the members of Congress who joined the Congressional Multiple Sclerosis Caucus in the United States Senate and the House of Representatives. If you have not joined the Congressional MS Caucus yet, now is the time. You can help address the challenges of each person whose life is affected by MS. The MS Caucus co-chairmen Congressmen Russ Carnahan (MO) and Michael Burgess, M.D. (TX) and Senators Byron Dorgan (ND) and Orrin Hatch (UT) invite you to join.

Members of the Congressional MS Caucus will…

- Actively engage in discussions about access to quality health care, increased MS research, disability rights, and other MS issues;
- Seek creative solutions to the challenges facing people with MS; and,
- Raise awareness and promote education about MS in our efforts to move closer to a world free of this disease.

About MS

Every hour in the U.S., someone is newly diagnosed with MS. It is an unpredictable, often disabling autoimmune disease that affects the central nervous system. More than 400,000 people in the United States, and 2.5 million people worldwide, live with MS. The cause is still unknown, and there is no cure.

MS is a prime-of-life disease generally diagnosed between the ages of 20 and 50, with more than twice as many women as men living with the disease. Symptoms range from numbness and tingling to blindness and paralysis. The progress, severity, and specific symptoms of MS cannot yet be predicted, but advances in research and treatments are helping to improve the quality of life for people living with MS.

Join the Congressional MS Caucus Today

To join the Congressional MS Caucus in the House, please contact:

- Jeremy Haldeman (Carnahan) at jeremey.haldeman@mail.house.gov
- Barry Brown (Burgess) at barry.brown@mail.house.gov

To join the Congressional MS Caucus in the Senate, please contact:

- Mina Addo (Dorgan) at Mina_Addo@dorgan.senate.gov
- Karen LaMontagne (Hatch) at Karen_Lamontagne@hatch.senate.gov

JOIN THE MOVEMENT

1100 New York Ave NW Suite 660 Washington D.C. 20005 tel +1 202 408 1500 fax +1 202 408 0696 www.nationalMSsociety.org/advocacy